RESPONSE TO AMENDMENT

1. Claims 1, 3-6, 8-11, 13-16, and 18-22 remain for further examination.

The new grounds of rejection

2. Applicants' amendments and arguments with respect to claims 1-22 filed on September 10, 2004 have been fully considered but they are deemed to be moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

4. Claims 1, 3-6, 8-11, 13-16, and 18-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wilde et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,446,260). Wilde's patent meets all the limitations for claims 1, 3-6, 8-11, 13-16, and 18-22 recited in the claimed invention.

5. As to claim 1, Wilde et al teach a method for updating client computers with user specific application enablement (see abstract; figures 1-2 and 4; and column 6 line 28 to column 7 line 36), comprising: creating a component control file which defines enablement components needed to run applications from a file server assigned a user on a client and actions to be performed to install the components, the components comprises required changes to an operating system of the client (figures 1-2; and column 7 line 37 to column 9 line 31); and creating an installation control file which lists the applications that have been assigned to the user and the components from the component control file which must be installed in order to execute the applications (figures 1-2 and 4; column 9 line 32 to column 10 line 62; and column 12 lines 15-48).

6. As to claims 3-4, Wilde et al disclose that the component control file is stored in a server the installation control file is also stored in a server (figures 1 and 4; column 9 lines 32-43; and column 12 lines 15-48).

7. As to claim 5, Wilde et al disclose that the installation control file is stored in a user-specific profile area in the server (figures 1 and 4; column 9 lines 32-43; column 10 lines 46-62; and column 12 lines 15-48).

8. As to claim 6, Wilde et al teach a method for updating client computers with user specific application enablement (see abstract; figures 1-2 and 4; and column 6 line 28 to column 7 line 36), comprising: reading a user's installation control file which contains a list of enablement components needed to run a set of applications from a file server that have been assigned to the user of a client; and changing an operating system according to each of the enablement components not installed on the client (figures 5-9; and column 12 line 49 to column 14 line 7; and column 14 line 59 to column 16 line 28).

9. As to claims 8-9, they are also rejected for the same reasons set forth to rejecting claims 3-5 above.

10. As to claim 10, Wilde et al teach the step of: prompting the user before installing the enablement components (column 9 lines 32-43; column 10 line 13 to column 11 line 55; and column 12 line 49 to column 13 line 5).

11. As to claims 11, 13-16, and 18-20, they are also rejected for the same reasons set forth to rejecting claims 1, 3-6, and 8-10 above, since claims 11, 13-16, and 18-20 are merely a computer program product for the method of operation defined in the claims 1, 3-6, and 8-10.

12. As to claims 21-22, they are also rejected for the same reasons set forth to rejecting claims 1 and 6 above, since claims 21-22 are merely an apparatus for the method of operation defined in the claims 1 and 6.

13. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new grounds of rejection. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See M.P.E.P. § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 C.F.R. § 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
